Approximately Travel Time and Unit: 1 hour 20 Minutes - 70 Miles (105 Kilometers)

Private Vehicle and Italian Speaking Driver Disposal: transfer-in only

Day 2

Marsala/Salt Way Road, Erice, Marzipan and San Vito lo Capo/Marsala

Approximately Travel Time and Unit: Full Day - 100 Miles (170 Kilometers)

Private Vehicle and English Speaking Driver Escort Disposal: full day from h 9AM Today we drive between Marsala and Trapani on the Via-del-Sale (Salt Way Road). On the way, it is possible to see numerous dazzlingly white mountains shimmering in the sun. These are not snow-capped mountains but hills of salt, one of the Sicilian economy's historical resources that was already very precious in the days of the Phoenicians, who were the first to bring some form of technology to its production. This is the best way to travel to join Erice uptown, which was an important religious site associated with the goddess Venus. Wander through its ancient streets and visit some of the famous homemade pastry shops—world-famous for marzipan candies and other delicacies like almond and pistachio pastries. Towering over the west of Sicily at 751m above sea level and often covered in its own personal cloud, Erice is a wonderfully preserved Mediaeval town offering the most breathtaking views and a palpable sense of history. Originally an Elymian city (the Elymians were around before the Greeks ever set foot in Sicily) Erice, or Eryx as it was first called, was a town of no little importance and renown and is said to have attracted the likes Hercules and Aeneas. Like so many Sicilian towns, it passed from one invader to another as all the usual suspects came and went, leaving their architectural calling cards and their cultural footprints. The name changed from Eryx, to Erice to Gebel Hamed and Monte San Giuliano but its essential character remained, obstinately repelling any attempt to change its real identity. Amongst the most visited sites are the two castles, Pepoli Castle and Venus Castle. The former was built by the Arabs while the latter was a Norman construction with imposing towers that derived its name from the fact that it was built on the site of the ancient Temple of Venus, allegedly founded by Aeneas.

Lunch in a local trattoria to taste the famous Fish Soup Cous Cous.

This afternoon we then continue onto the small village of San Vito lo Capo a nice fishing village resort at the tip of a cape which marks the north-western corner of Sicily. A walk in a city centre overlooking the pink-sand and clean water is a must. Later return to Marsala. (L)

Day 3

Marsala: Nature Reserve, Saltpans and Winery

Approximately Travel Time and Unit: Full Day - 40 Miles (60 Kilometers)

Important: Marsala winery is closed on Sunday, Bank Holidays and Summer Week (middle of August)
Private Vehicle and English Speaking Driver Escort Disposal: full day from h 10AM The Nature Reserve of the Stagnone and the island of Mozia is a place of extraordinary beauty, where alongside the exceptional natural landscapes you can appreciate the typical windmills of Trapani coast, original examples of still fully functional industrial archeology. Saline della Laguna are located inside the Reserve. In front of the saltpans, just after the small islands of the lagoon, there is the archipelago of Egadi Islands: Favignana, Levanzo and Marettimo. To the north you can see the "peninsula" where is located the city of Trapani, whose original name, Drepanum, means scythe. To the south there is the city of Marsala extended around Boeo Cape. The sea salt, in the tradition of this part of Sicily, is obtained by the evaporation of the sea water, through a simple but functional method of "handmade fractional distillation", that allows to highlight the positive qualities and at the same time eliminate unwanted compounds such as calcium sulphate or gypsum.

Light lunch will be served at the area around the saltpans.

Later this afternoon a short drive takes us onto the Cantine Florio Winery (Cantine Florio Winery: subject to availability) to taste the Marsala wines. Marsala is a wine, dry or sweet. While the city's natives sometimes drink "vintage" Marsala, the wine produced for export is universally fortified similar to Port, Madeira and Sherry. Originally, this addition of alcohol was to ensure that it would last on long ocean voyages, but now it is made that way because of its popularity in foreign markets.(L)

Day 4

Marsala/Castelvetro: Nocellara del Belice Olive Oil/Agrigento

Approximately Travel Time and Unit: Full Day - 90 Miles (150 Kilometers)

Private Vehicle and English Speaking Driver Escort Disposal: full day from h 8.30AM Today we travel to Castelvetro, a nice village in the southwestern of the island famous for the olive oil production. The town is well-known for the Noccellara del Belice olives. It is a dual-purpose olive, grown both for oil and for the table. It is used to make "Valle del Belice" extra-virgin olive oil, which is pressed from a minimum of 70% Noccellara del Belice olives. As a table olive it may be treated by various methods, one of which is named for the comune of Castelvetro in the Valle del Belice; these may be marketed as Castelvetro olives in the United States and elsewhere, and are large, green olives with a mild, buttery flavor. Unusually, the Noccellara del Belice olive has two DOP protections: both Valle del Belice DOP olive oil and Noccellara del Belice DOP table olives have protected status in the European Union.

Light lunch in an olive oil farmhouse-factory with olive oil tastings.

This afternoon we then continue onto Agrigento. (L)

Day 5

Agrigento and Sikanian Local Food Experience: off the beaten track/Palermo

Approximately Travel Time and Unit: Full Day - 100 Miles (160 Kilometers)

Private Vehicle and English Speaking Driver Escort Disposal: full day from h 8.30AM Today visit the finest of all ancient Greek sites—the complete Doric Temples (Admission fee: not included), one of Sicily's most famous historical attractions. This is one of the most outstanding examples of Greater Greece art and architecture, and is one of the main attractions of Sicily as well as a national monument of Italy. The area was included in the UNESCO Heritage Site list in 1997. Founded as a Greek colony in the 6th century B.C., Agrigento became one of the leading cities in the Mediterranean world. Its supremacy and pride are demonstrated by the remains of the magnificent Doric temples that dominate the ancient town, much of which still lies intact under today's fields and orchards. This splendid archaeological park consists of eight temples (and various other remains) built between about 510 BC and 430 BC: the Temple of Hera, the Temple of Concordia, the Temple of Heracles, the Temple of Olympian Zeus, the Temple of Castor and Pollux, the Temple of Hephaestos, the Temple of Demeter, and the Temple of Asclepius (the God of Medicine). Apart from this latter, which is to be found on the banks of the Akragas river, all are situated in the same area on rocky crests south of modern day Agrigento (not really in a Valley at all!).

Later we drive to the unique country town off the beaten track. First time visitors can't help but be dazzled and awed when, from the provincial road that meanders from Agrigento inland along curves, twists and bends between mountains and hills, they are greeted by a uniquely spectacular view. On a lonely hill, in the center of the Platani river valley, surrounded by wild and harsh vegetation, a handful of houses lie on the sheer slope of the hill—this is the small town of Sant'Angelo. Upon arrival meet the bakery owner. She will show us Pizza and Bread preparation. Simple, home-cooked snack in picnic style to taste Sicilian Pizza and Pane Cunsatu (a typical homemade bread with olive oil and pecorino cheese).

Lunch in picnic style to enjoy local life and real gastronomy for your unforgettable Sicilian Local Food experience.

This afternoon we then continue onto Palermo, the Capital of Sicily. (L)
